MANET

“...the planning of our city fathers...”

“...the support of Quincy’s taxpayers...”

In word and in picture The Manet for 1956 will, we hope, be a memory book ever reminding us that through the planning of our city fathers and the support of Quincy's taxpayers we have been carefully processed in subject matter, athletics, and extra-curricular activities in a functional building by an efficient personnel so that now we are ready to approach our future well-educated and responsible finished products, the result in This Business of Education.

April 2, 1938—September 3, 1954

James S. Collins
Principal

A tablet just inside the main entrance of a leading university appropriately states that it wishes to see proceeding from its doors a vast army of young men adequately prepared to take their proper places anywhere in the world for the improvement of mankind. This high purpose expresses hopes and aspirations closely related to the central theme of the yearbook of the class of 1956 of North Quincy High School, namely "This Business of Education," and though education is usually considered in a professional classification, it may well be interpreted quite advantageously in keeping with the topic expressed.

It should be the business of all graduates to proceed in their educational endeavors with diligence in keeping with their interests and abilities thus enabling them not only to attain the success for which they are striving but also to make valuable contributions to the improved society in which to live.

The entire school extends its best wishes to the class of '56.

FOOTBALL

North Quincy's undermanned football squad got off to a fast start losing only one game in the first four. But a plague of mid-season injuries disorganized Coach Donahue's Red Raiders. With a returning nucleus of only three veterans—Jack Crowley, Al Adams, and Ed Coughlan—North played a fighting Dedham team to a 7-7 tie with Fran Thomson turning in a sterling defensive effort. The following Saturday, North met the future Class B champs, Winchester, and bowed 26-14 after a bitter struggle. In this game North unleashed a devastating passing attack in the person of Jack Crowley and his two big ends, Doug Grutchfield and Al Adams.

The Raiders broke into the win column with a crushing 26-6 defeat of the New Bedford Whalers in preparation for the big game with Hingham. Turning in their peak performance of the year, the men from North squeezed out a 13-12 victory over a strong Hingham squad. Ed Coughlan, Ralph Frazier, Willie Wanless, Babe Sweeney, and John Huber were all top performers in the line to bottle up Hingham's attack. At this time a rash of injuries to such big players as Paul Payson, Larry McGee, John Huber, Bob Dixon, Jack Cooke, Bob Mann, and Red Thomson wrecked havoc with the whole squad.

Facing an unenviable task of playing such opponents as arch rivals Milton, Natick, Braintree, and Quincy, Coach Donahue switched Jack Crowley and George Doring to halfback and slipped "Tookus" Deane in at quarterback. Struggling against such overwhelming odds, the team slid to defeat before Milton 20-0, Natick 28-6, Braintree 25-6, and the Turkey Day rival, Quincy, 44-20. Although losing, North piled up as many points as any other North squad has ever done.

B A S K E T B A L L

This year's team started on a promising note when Coach Mullarkey welcomed five lettermen to his opening day practice. These five and a junior varsity grad shaped into one of North's most successful squads in the last ten years.

North started strong, winning their first four games in quick succession. Natick fell 55-35, then Thayer 76-37, followed by Arlington 76-51, and finally Mission 88-58. The Raiders showed remarkable scoring balance in these games. Al Adams, Bob Walsh, and Doug Grutchfield all turned in high scoring performances to keep the opposition reeling. Everett brought North its first loss by coming from behind and winning a thriller 63-57.

Mullarkey's men weren't stopped by this and went on to win five more in succession against powerful opponents. Archbishop Williams gave Raider fans their first squeaker with Bob Walsh bringing the victory home, 49-46, with clutch foul shooting. North then rolled over Weymouth 80-53, Rindge Tech 83-55, Newton 76-61, and Weymouth again 74-52. In these games Jack Crowley, Cliff Cox and Don Stevenson displayed their scoring ability and sparkling defensive touch.

Powerful Brockton caught North on an off night, and the Raiders came out on the wrong end of a 68-52 score. North, needing two wins to qualify for Tech, bounced back to beat Braintree 73-56 and Rindge Tech 84-68 to reach the 65% goal. A return game with Braintree proved a thriller with North copping a 67-64 win. A cold North Quintet dropped a 61-52 decision to previously beaten Arlington. However, Mullarkey's Raiders rebounded in a thrilling overtime period to an upset victory over undefeated Brockton 71-69.

Dependable reserves led by Dick Mann and Paul Painten, backed up by Jack Carney, John Huber, Bruce Fitzpatrick, and Eddie Deane have given North's first six strong confidence and helped them to a successful season.

Co-Captains—Fred and Dick

Coach Laing's hockey contingent, hampered by lack of experience, returned to the Arena ice for another campaign. The team elected Dick Cobban and Fred Cook to lead them against all opposition. The Raiders received fine goal-tending from sophomore Tommy Lloyd and sparkling play from defensemen Dick Cobban and Tom Noonan. Fred Cook, Jack Ready, and John Joyce composed the strong first line which kept the opposition constantly on their toes. Red O'Neil, Tom McNeice, and Bob Quintiliani provided the second line with a good scoring punch. North's royal rooters have really enjoyed Thursday evenings at the Arena with the Raider ice-men.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Beanies, bookcovers, dances, assemblies, scholarships are badges of an active Student Council. This year's council, with Bob Walsh as president, has been responsible for many successful innovations. Who can forget the red and black beanies that colorfully topped every scholarly head, or the smartly designed book covers with seal on front and campus on back that rejuvenated texts with one foot in the grave, or the coolest man this side of heaven—our own disc-jockey, Tom McNeice—playing platters of heavenly dance tunes at our rock-and-roll sessions? And all these innovations piled up money too for a school gift and a scholarship.

SPANISH CLUB

¿Habla Vd. español? Well, you have to if you want to join this club. Under the direction of Miss Pratt, the Spanish Club meets every Friday after school. The members really live up to the name of this club for they attend Spanish plays, learn the customs of Spanish-speaking countries, and hold their meetings in Spanish.

LIBRARY STAFF

As a school is not complete without a library, so a library is not complete without its staff. Headed by Miss Sherman and Miss Countie, these efficient girls and boys, charging out books, distributing library slips, straightening shelves, planning parties and poster displays, give generously of their spare time to further the educational purposes of the heart of the school.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

North's singing stars haunt room 402 where they combine the job of singing with hours of technical practice. Is it any wonder, then, that their Christmas offering, Easter program, and spring concert leave the audience feeling like better people than before just because the spirit and job of the performers have projected themselves over the footlights. And the school, too, shares their achievement when they return with honors from the Spring Festival.

LIBRARY BOOK RECOMMENDATION COMMITTEE

Sample editions of new books stacked dizzily to the ceiling of the library anteroms, feverish and enthusiastic literati burrowing into the dizzy stacks, criticisms, evaluations, approvals, dizzy stacks dwarfing into not so dizzy stacks—a full sweep of ceiling visible and inch by inch you realize the rooms, like all other rooms worthy of the name, have walls—by dint of such intensive and scholarly research do the members of the Library Book Recommendation Committee select the additions to North's library shelves.

M. P. O. C.

M.P.O.C.—What is the magic behind these curiosity-arousing letters? We are only too glad to bring that magic to the fore. It is the Motion Picture Operators' Club, a group of eager technicians who with their adviser, Mr. Gentry, obtain and operate the films that enrich our textbook knowledge and transform our classrooms into honest-to-goodness movies. A big hand to Bob, Jack, and Sonny, who have turned the switch of many a classroom wonderland.

SKETCH CLUB

A solid gold palette to each of these potential VanGoghs whose various and sundry mixings of colored pigments, late afternoons in 329, and painted, pasted fingers have certainly not been in vain as the ethereal beauty of the Christmas and Easter backdrops has shown us.

NURSES' CAREER CLUB

The ordeal of illness won't be bad at all when these cheery little ladies finally earn that ever-so-important black stripe. Full of dreams and expectations for the future, the nurses of tomorrow, aided by Ann and Miss Gray, busily plan various hospital tours and discussions. North might be harboring another Florence Nightingale that the class of '56 will be proud of.

TEACHERS' CAREER CLUB

Teachers in the making are a very valuable commodity, and so here at North we have entrusted them to the care of Mr. Casey. Tuesday homeroom periods are meeting time when key educators pinpoint policies, duties, training, and attitudes of the profession, and the girls themselves get a chance to preview a teacher's life by taking over Junior High School classes.

CLASS DAY COMMITTEE

Bermudas, lollypops, and teddy bears recaptured our care-free kid days on June 6, from twelve to two o'clock when we celebrated North's traditional Class Day spiked with an overflow of hilarity, but by six o'clock at our banquet and dance, we were sophisticated seniors again; and Class Day remains a fond memory.

DANCE COMMITTEE

Streamers, backboards, favors, and centerpieces are topics of discussion when industrious Dance Committee members put their heads together. Catchy names are debated, color schemes are decided, and "56" finances roll in.

PROM COMMITTEE

The highlight of the senior year,
The thing the class remembers,
Comes when the end is drawing near,
And glowing are its embers.
To meeting places, cheery and warm,
Went the committee to work on the Prom.
After many debates and much repercussion,
Louis XIV was the theme for discussion.
Alan had thoughts, and Carol did too,
Jon, Barb, and Nancy chimed in with the crew.
Jack and Doug had much to ponder,
And soon to them, all thoughts would wander.
A ballroom mural that will open your eyes,
An enormous mirror that will cause much surprise.
A rich velvet carpet, long but not wide,
Some stately columns and a pool at the side.
The beautiful dresses, each gal was a queen.
And the fellas looked nicer than we'd ever seen.
The little gold bracelets caused much speculation,
And the girls were all proud of this precious creation.
Perfection completed, those two words are true,
The evening was ended and dawn had shown through.

NORTH STAR

Just as the brightest star in our heavens sends its light over the whole world, so does the biggest "Star" at North send its reporters to every corner of the school. The sports news, social news, club activities, and prominent people are seen clearly through the telescope of the Editor-in-Chief, Beverly Burden. After Mr. Murphy as laboratory technician has approved all the findings, the presses start rolling and soon the news is distributed to all. The New York Times had better be careful, for competition is getting keen.

BIOLOGY CLUB

Nature's mysteries make more interesting stories than fiction. North's group of especially interested students inspired by our expert, Miss Shields, have found this to be rue. They started the year with a cook-out on the beach at Sandy Point, Scituate. They combed the shores for new specimens to be used in our sea aquariums and soon became so interested that they divided into committees and organized a booklet on seashore life. Talks by experts and field trips perk up the exotic tales of Mother Nature. With many of life's questions still to be answered, we predict some future world-shattering discoveries by North's embryo ichthyologists, entomologists, ornithologists, and conchologists.

STUDENT

A leader in any man's language is a chief, a guide. And here at North Mr. Rickson and Miss McCoy have developed a hand-picked group of boys and girls from amateurs to professional gymnasts adept as spine-tingling tumblers, as gym-class instructors, and as exponents of physical fitness. In a word, there is here the right combination of brawn and brain—and so leaders are born!

Look, Ma—No feet!

RESULT

This year we have taken to the open road of literary adventure. Last September we resolved that with our senior year at North Quincy before us, we would be done with the traditional make-up of previous Manets. We hope that you have enjoyed this excursion as much as we have through the months that we have been afoot on the journey.

I keep saying "We," for I have had companions all along the path that I have chosen for this yearbook. Steve and Art encouraged the Advertising and Patron Staffs to a good fortune that Miss Mullaney and Miss Morrison invested for us. The adults, Mr. Hofferty as faculty adviser, Mr. Bleiler as photographer, and Mr. Farnham as the connecting link between us and the publisher, saw me the whole way through. Always abreast with me were Jon, pioneering the layout arrangements, the Editorial Staff, jogging off one write-up after another, and Dottie, Kathie, and their typing staff, marathoning through the copy.

Of course the lasting fun of any yearbook lies in its cherished memories. I hope that for you just as for me the 1956 Manet contains just that.
